Weekly Caretaker Report

Week of March 12th, 2023

Another week of storm recovery has passed at Hideaway Bay. ADU continues to work on mold remediation. FEMA has made their 1st round through Hideaway Bay and they have picked up most of the large debris with heavy machinery. They say they will return next week to hand pick the remaining smaller debris. Things are still a mess but having the large debris piles removed helps allot!

Most of my week was spent on landscaping. The entire property was trimmed / weed wacked and the grass was cut on the West side of the property. I continued trimming the dead palm fronds and branches and this work will continue next week. The chlorine dosing hoses were replaced at the pool pumps. FEMA was helped off and on all week. Trash was removed from the mangroves again and general maintenance was done.

Pye Barker Fire was on the island on Monday for our annual fire system inspection. I went around with them as they accessed all the units, fire panels and risers.

The Captains were able to get the new hydraulic steering installed on the skiff. They report that everything works great and the steering system is a great upgrade. They have also been busy removing tree stumps while we have the equipment on site to do so. As usual they also continue to do their daily work of keeping the bathrooms sanitized, general cleanup and general maintenance projects.
